Press release:

The consultant companies Cenergia and Kuben Management join forces

From October 1, 2016 the consultancy Kuben Management, and the engineering company, Cenergia Energy Consultants, will become one.

Since 1982, Cenergia has had its focus on highly qualified consulting services within the areas of energy and sustainability of buildings and communities. Cenergia has a solid portfolio of customers and a network of considerable size across the EU and globally.

Kuben Management is one of the leading client advisory consultants for builders and also provides specialist advice within energy optimisation and sustainability of the built environment.

The three owners of Cenergia, Ole Balslev-Olesen, Peder Vejsig Pedersen and Ove Christen Mørck are very pleased that Cenergia now becomes part of Kuben Management. This, they are convinced, will ensure that their experience and skills may be further developed and used in new contexts.

For Kuben Management the acquisition of Cenergia supports the company's objectives for growth and the wish to constantly widen and deepen its consulting services.

The integration of Cenergia will contribute towards sharpening the profile of Kuben Management as a consultancy with a holistic focus on sustainable development of the built environment.

"The match between Cenergia and Kuben Management is very good", says the managing director of Kuben Management, Ulf Christensen. "Both as regards skills, profile and culture. So, we see very good opportunities for creating synergies, both in relation to our consulting services and for the company as a whole."

Kuben Management is part of the NRGI group and has approx. 130 employees. The company provides financial, administrative, legal and technical client advisory consultancy to builders, as well as advice on energy and operational optimisation for building associations and private builders. The company has offices in Copenhagen, Aarhus, Aalborg, Kolding og Odense.

The NRGI group has a long-term objective to contribute towards a sustainable development of Danish society. "It is very good news that Cenergia now becomes part of the NRGI family" says Managing Director of NRGI, Søren Sørensen. "The profile of the company fits well with the ambition of NRGI to support the development of sustainable buildings and cities as well as a sustainable energy system.
